AT HOME AGAIN.

President Returns From His Tour of the South.

Forces Gathering in Washington Preparatory to Spending the Winter.

RAILROAD RATE LEGISLATION.

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.]

Washington, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt came ashore from the Dolphin at the Washington navy yard at 11:55 o'clock this forenoon and five minutes later he had left the yard for the White House in a carriage with Mrs. Roosevelt, and the trip was at an end which round out his tour of the entire United States during his presidency.

When the Dolphin showed herself around arsenal point and left the Potomac for the eastern branch, the firing squad manning the saluting battery, got ready for action. Ten minutes before the landing was made a salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the yard battery and immediately answered by the Dolphin.

The forces are gathering in Washington we allude to the political and social forces which make Washington during the winter season the center of interest on this continent. Some members and Senators are already here and others, who are not here, are represented by their wives who are arranging for winter homes, either in detached houses, apartment houses, hotels, or boarding houses, as their tastes may be and their exchequers afford. Washington is better prepared to receive this winter's contingent than ever before. To all appearance there has been almost excessive building of fine apartment houses and it can not well be seen but that the over supply will produce the usual effect of reduction in rents. To all appearance visitors will be able to wallow in apartment houses at reasonable expense, and hotels in their competition for guests have been compelled to lower their prices also.

With regard to political questions, the most prominent of course, are those relating to railway rate legislation and the Panama Canal. The Senate Committee on Railway Rate Legislation of which Senator Elkins is chairman, has already resumed its session in Washington, while Senator Foraker and Taft in Ohio and two rival conventions in Chicago are though their speeches, assisted by the press, giving the country a foretaste of the debate that will be held in Congress this winter. Senator Foraker, from his sick bed, has launched a bolt at Secretary Taft, charging him with the atrocious crime of being one with Mr. Bryan and the democratic party in favoring federal control of the railroads. This and similar charges and the fact that the President needs and is expecting to receive Democratic support, plainly shows that on this question at least there will be no adherence to party lines. The Democratic support of the President's contention is indeed remarkable. Said Ex-Governor Campbell of Ohio, himself once prominent as a Presidential candidate. "It is a mistake to attempt to combat public opinion. We are here to endorse President Roosevelt's plan of Government regulation of railroads. President Roosevelt's demands are reasonable and it is a mistake to oppose them. Some people think a man who wants the railroads regulated by the Government is a socialist. If this is true, then perhaps I may be called a socialist although I have no sympathy with the theories of that creed. I am opposed to Government railroads, but want fair play. Discrimination in railroad rates must be stopped. Public opinion is more powerful than the wealth and influence of the railroads." These words uttered at the Chicago Convention and the words of ex-Governor Van Zanet when he said: "We are not the enemies of the railroads. Time will demonstrate that we are their friends. In my opinion they are making a mistake to oppose so conservative a measure as the proposed amendment to the Interstate Commerce law," indicate the conservative feeling of the country as voiced by men of national prominence. At the same convention, the chairman said: We want to draft and pass strong resolution upon the subject, to appoint committees from every State, to get right after the Senators from their respective states with the proceeding of this meeting. If they are with the President, we want to know it. If they are with the corporations, we want to know it."

Halloween Celebration.

The younger set of Hartford celebrated Halloween at the home of Miss Pearl Thomas, 1530 E. Z. street. The merry entertainment continued until an advanced hour of the night. The rooms were resplendent with decorations of autumn leaves and those ornaments were suggestive of the time and seasons. The festive board was greatly enhanced by beautiful and appropriate decorations. The festivities at length came to an end and the party started out on a serenading expedition—and the night was filled with sweet melody. They did not disperse until midnight. The event was one long to be remembered.

EXTREME TACTICS BEING USED

Miller Spares Not His Fellow Townsman And Friends in His Desperate Effort to Win.

The following self explanatory letter was received by Mr. Clayton Woodward of Beaver Dam from Judge J. P. Miller Democratic candidate for re-election. Notice the refutation of its slanderous and malicious terms by many of the best men in Hartford.

Hartford, Ky., November 1, 1905.

Mr. Clayton Woodward,
Beaver Dam, Ky.

Dear Sir:—I had hoped to see you and say something to you before the election but it will now be impossible. Knowing your views on the saloon question I desire to say one thing to you in regard to the coming election.

Last September we had the fight of our lives on the local option question in Hartford, you know my views on the question, which stand I always take. The leading Republicans of this town were for saloons and they made a bargain with the Democratic saloon men to help them carry the town for saloons if they would vote against W. H. Barnes and myself in the election this fall. The saloon men have organized and are carrying this fight into the election and I suppose I will lose almost the entire Democratic vote of the saloon men of the town.

Now I want the help of some good honest men to overcome this loss and must have it if I win, my defeat is a victory for the saloon men and my election is their defeat.

Can you and will you help to defeat the saloon men thereby assist in raising the moral and religious standard of our county.

Thanking you in advance for your favors and influence in the coming election and trusting to your good judgement to take what ever you think the right course, after considering this question, I am

Respectfully your friend,

J. P. MILLER.

If the above letter refers to us or either of us it is a wilful falsehood and was written for campaign purposes on the eve of the election by the man who sent the letter with a malicious intent to injure the Republican candidates.

We, nor either of us ever made any such bargain or agreement either directly or indirectly, nor authorized any one else to:

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Pe-ru-na in the Home for Catarrhal Diseases.

Remarkable Cures Effected By Pe-ru-na.

Under date of January 10, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter: "My wife has been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for the past twenty-five years. Her case has baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing. She was also passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life.

"In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of twenty-five years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me. Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more."—John O. Atkinson.

In a letter dated January 1, 1900, Mr. Atkinson says, after five years' experience with Peruna:

"I will ever continue to speak a good word for Peruna. I am still cured of catarrh."—John O. Atkinson, Independence, Mo., Box 272.

Mrs. Alla Schwandt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism and catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peruna I can sleep and nothing bothers me now. If I ever am affected with any kind of sickness Peruna will be the medicine I shall use. My son was cured of catarrh of the larynx by Peruna."—Mrs. Alla Schwandt.

Why Old People are Especially Liable to Systemic Catarrh.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases come also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people.

This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safeguard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that entirely meets these cases. Nothing but an effective systemic remedy can cure them.

Obituary.

The home of C. M. and Nora F. Debruler, Trisler, Ky., was made sad Sept. 11 by the death of their little one. Little Orvis had been sick about three months. He was one year two months and twenty-six days old. He was so small to endure the suffering that he did; but the patience with which he bore it, was remarkable. Orvis was such a sweet child; always kind to everybody and everything.

The funeral services, conducted by Rev. Galloway, was held at Trisler, Sept. 12, and the remains were interred in Trisler Cemetery.

Weep not, dear parents, but let us live so that when life's troubles shall have ended, we shall go and meet the little one who is now singing around the throne of God and beckoning to us. HIS AUNT BERTHA.

College Items.

The number of boarding students is gradually increasing. The total number to date is twenty-two. The last to enter are C. D. Barnes and James Paris, who were assigned to work in the collegiate department.

This week closes the first quarter and teachers are holding their quarterly examinations. Next week each pupil will begin his report card which must be submitted to the parents for examination and signature. These reports are of very great importance and should be given careful attention by parents.

The pupils and teachers are grateful to Carson & Company for the rulers and book satchels which were distributed gratis among school children.

The Adelpian Literary Society will give an open session in the near future.

Last Monday morning at chapel exercises each teacher read off the names of those pupils who during the two months just closed, had neither been absent nor tardy, and the names of those who were perfect in attendance or punctuality. The Total results were as follows: Number of pupils who were neither tardy nor absent was, in Primary 5, Intermediate, 12; Grammar, 20; Collegiate, 20. The number of pupils who were not absent was, in Primary, 20, Intermediate, 30; Sub-Collegiate, 23; Collegiate, 22.

The teachers monthly reports for the month showed an average daily attendance of 42 pupils in the Primary, 38 in the Intermediate, 47 in the Sub-Collegiate and 49 in the Collegiate department.

TWENTY-TWO STATES

Represented at National Meeting of A. S. of E., Recently Held at Indianapolis.

J. W. Dunn, president of the Daviess county union A. S. of E.; S. B. Robinson, vice-president of the national Tobacco Growers Association, and Watt Taylor, of Ohio county, returned last Thursday from Indianapolis, where they attended the national meeting of the American Society of Equity.

Twenty-two states were represented at the convention by about 100 delegates. Much business was transacted.

The question of pooling crops and the fixing of prices were the most important matters before the convention. J. A. Everett was re-elected president and H. B. Sherman National organizer.

The following minimum prices were fixed on various commodities:

Corn, 50 cents; oats 48 cents; hay $10; hogs six and one-half cents; cattle from 5 to 6 cents.

Going Some.

"Lightening sure acts strange."

"Yes?"

"Yes a streak of it came in our kitchen door yesterday, struck two chairs and the table, ran around the dining room, up the stairs, tore through every upstairs room, and finally went out of the window. I nearly died laughing."

"You must have thought it was funny?"

"Yes, it reminded me of how papa acts when grandma is after him."

Auto Replaces Camel.

As the results of an automobile on the desert, a novel car has just been completed for the use of the Sirdar of Egypt, who will use it on the vast sandy stretches of the Sudan. The motive power consists of a twenty-horse-power, three-cylinder vertical engine with a Renold silent chain transmission. The wheels are entirely inclosed by light metal side plates, leaving nothing but the broad solid rubber tires exposed, and it is thought that the latter will remove the difficulty of getting over the surface of loose, shifting sand without becoming imbedded so deeply as to impede progress. To prevent the fine grit working into any part of the mechanism the entire underbody is protected by an ingeniously devised apron.

Either kerosene or gasoline suits the engine equally well, and owing to the character of the country to be traversed provision has specially been made for a three days' supply of cooling and drinking water, as well as fuel. The change speed gear gives a range of from three to twenty miles an hour. The car will, in addition, haul a two-wheel trailer, very similar to a gun carriage, upon which will be mounted a dynamo and searchlight, to be run from the car engine. This will be used for night observations in the desert. Without the searchlight carriage weight of the car is close to 5,000 pounds.

Wonderful.

"So you had your palm read by a palmist?" interrogated the tramp by the water tank.

"Yes, pard," replied his chum of the ties, "and it was wonderful how he could tell fortunes. I asked him what I needed de most of all in dis world."

"What did he say?"

Why, he looked at me palm and said: 'A cake of soap.'"

Cautious.

"Why does bliggins insist on carrying that shabby umbrella?"

"He's afraid to get a new one for fear it would prevent somebody from giving him one on Christmas."

COOKERY IN THE SUMMER.

"Hint from Paris" Tells How to Manipulate Device and Prepare Meal with Paper as Fuel.

From Paris there comes news of a household invention—an invention pertaining especially to the five or six-room flat—that will be an interesting bit of news to many dwellers in the towns who have to solve the cookery problem, and yet are studying to modify the temperature of the floor level on which they dwell, says the Baltimore American.

Who but the French would solve the problem of the broiled cutlet, without gas, spirit or fuel of any sort, and only with the newspaper of the day before. It will be readily guessed that there must be an apparatus of peculiar ingenuity to enable the cooking of a cutlet with a newspaper, and so there is. There is a little pan of aluminum, made to fit beneath an other pan, also of aluminum. The paper, torn into strips, is burned in the lower pan, and in the upper pan is the cutlet. The thin metal absorbs the heat quickly and completely, and when the paper has been consumed the cutlet has been browned to a nicety and cooked sufficiently. The food melon, the salads and the bread for the menu may, of course, be produced in the summer time without any cookery, and fruit of one kind or another are generally abundant. The heat from the little aluminum contrivance is economized and concentrated in the steak, and does not raise the surrounding temperature to any appreciable degree.

Kind of Men Who Make Doctors.

A reason for the cheerful temperament which characterizes so many doctors probably is to be found in the type of the man entering the medical profession, says the Indian Medical Record. The nervous, the timid, the dyspeptic, and the invalid do not readily take to the doctor's calling. Only those endowed with strong and virile temperaments are fitted for the profession or likely to embrace it. It is because medical men are, as a class, of a peculiar and virile nature that they are cheerful and resourceful.

Marry or Stay in Jail.

In some parts of Siam girls who reach a certain age without marrying are placed in a privileged class, under the special care of the king, who binds himself to find husbands for them all. His method is simplicity itself. A prisoner in any of the Siamese jails may gain pardon and release by marrying one of the ineligible class. Whether he is already married or not is of no consequence, for in Siam a man is not restricted to one wife, but still, many prisoners prefer jail.

VOTE early next Tuesday.

Do you favor the third term in office?

If you vote for Miller you indorse the establishment of public roads at the cost of private citizens.

VOTE the Republican ticket if you favor competition in buying and public contracting for iron bridges.

If you vote the Democratic ticket next Tuesday you vote to maintain the present system of indiscriminate property raising.

Do you favor indiscriminate raising of the assessed value of property? If so, vote for the contingent running on the Democratic ticket.

A VOTE for the old viva voce system of voting is not a vote to eliminate the present system of registration. Just the way of voting is to be changed.

We introduce to you last Wednesday the new editor of the Hartford Herald, Mr. Frank L. Felix, who will hereafter sit on the tripod of our contemporary.

Do you favor the present system of promiscuous raising the assessed value of your property which has been inaugurated by the board of supervisors appointed by candidate J. P. Miller.

If the proposed amendment to the Constitution, providing for a return to the old viva voce system of voting, should be adopted we would still be annoyed with the present useless registration.

ARE you in favor of a man for office who says he would rather buy wheat in foreign markets and pay $1.15 per bushel for it than pay Ohio county farmers 90 cents per bushel? Vote the Democratic ticket if you are.

FARMERS, if you vote the Democratic ticket next Tuesday you will vote for a man who is in the employ of, controlled by and in partnership, or at least has recently been in partnership with the Continental Tobacco Co., one of the most gigantic tobacco trusts in the world.

WHEN you retire to the booth next Tuesday with unvoted ballot in your hand you should be satisfied that competition in buying iron bridges for Ohio county would not cheapen the price before you cast that ballot for the Democratic ticket thereby indorsing that method of buying them.

Do you favor a man for office who, according to his own admissions, has had the assessed value of the property of the tax-payers of Ohio county raised to that extent that they have been compelled to pay $81,000 more in taxes during the past seven years than they did in the preceding seven years.

Do you favor the re-election of a man who in one breath says he has in the last seven years saved for the poor tax-payers of Ohio county $21,000 by reason of the fact that poll tax has been reduced from $1.50 to $1.00 and on this basis appeals for support, and in the next breath admits that he has, by means of having your property raised, collected $81,000 more from the same poor tax-payers than was collected in the preceding seven years.

LAST year just before the election a certain gentleman who is now running for re-election to office on the Democratic ticket in an article published in the Hartford Herald scored the negroes up one side and down the other and bemoaned President Roosevelt in every conceivable way because he believes in giving the negro a show. Now that same gentleman is "honeying" around the colored folks trying to get them to vote for him and the rest of the ticket.

It has been reported that it was the fault of County Clerk M. S. Ragland that the stock law question will not be submitted to a vote in Cool Springs precinct in accordance with petition for same. Elsewhere in THE REPUBLICAN will be found Mr. Ragland's official certificate to the effect that the petition was never filed in his office. We are informed that it was left with Judge Miller as the petition from Heflin was and was never by him filed with the Clerk, and by reason of this fact no order for an election was made. It was in no way the Clerk's fault for until such matters are filed in his office he knows nothing of them.

IN A letter sent to Mr. Clayton Woodward, of Beaver Dam, and to various other persons over the county which will be found on the first page of this issue, Judge Miller says: "My defeat is a victory for the saloon men and my election is their defeat" and again he says "My election will assist in raising the moral and religious standard of our county." Now does any one who knows W. B. Taylor, the Republican nominee for County Judge believes his (Taylor's) election would be a victory for the saloons? We are reliably informed that he was never in a saloon in his life? We might ask the Judge who won four years ago on the eve of the election when he lined six or eight men up to the bar at McHenry and ordered and paid for the drinks for them? Who won when he was indicted and found guilty, by a jury of twelve, men of running a "blind tiger" at McHenry? Was it a victory for the saloons then or was it a defeat for them? Was the moral and religious standard of the county thereby raised? The indictment for and jury's verdict finding him guilty of selling whisky together with an indictment and plea of guilty for failing to work the public road of which he was at one time overseer, are on file in the Circuit Clerk's office and can be seen by any one who desires to see them.

GLEANINGS FROM JUNGLES.

Under the headlines of "A word for Ohio county" and speaking for its pets, Miller and Barnes, and about their management of the county's affairs the Hartford Herald says:

What citizen of this county would, without reason, turn them off and employ a new lot of untrained men who have had no experience in such affairs and place these important matters in their hands?

Such argument has long since been worn thread-bare. Everybody knows that these same men began their official duties with equally as little experience as any man that ever ran for either of the offices which they now hold. There are others who can probably learn the duties of County Judge and County Attorney. We think the men running for these offices on the Republican ticket have as much tact at learning things as the present incumbents and the people will run no greater risk in electing them than they did when they elected the present incumbents. Continuing in the same article it says:

The county, under the present splendid management, is practically out of debt.

Judge Miller says in his article "To the Voters of Ohio County" that he found the county $35,000 in debt and that he has paid $34,500 leaving only $500 owing. We infer that he means to say that this is all the county owes. Well suppose it is, and suppose that either one or both of these statements are true, there is no especial credit due anyone, except the tax-payers for liquidating the debt, for Judge Miller admits in the same article that he has collected $81,000 more taxes from Ohio county tax-payers during his term of office than was collected during Judge John P. Morton's term of office and figuring the running expenses of Miller's term the same as Morton's term, there would be a balance of $46,500 of the excess collected left after deducting the $34,500 paid on the indebtedness according to Miller's own figures. What has been done with this? The tax-payers came up with $81,000 extra taxes during Miller's term because he, J. P. Miller candidate for the third term, by his board of supervisors raised their property and forced them to do it, and he now claims the glory for paying $34,500 debts with it. It is entirely all right to pay debts but don't try to mislead the people about the manner in which it is done.

But to the Herald's statement that the county is practically out of debt. We are reliably informed that there are debts against the county in excess of $20,000, and it represents the money borrowed to pay for the Hartford and Beaver Dam pike together with iron bridges unpaid for. Of course the county can and will pay these debts but let's be fair about it. Don't try to mislead the people by saying the county is practically out of debt when, as a matter of fact, it owes more than half as much as has been claimed that it owed when Judge Miller came into office, and that too notwithstanding the fact that $81,000 more taxes has been collected during his term than was ever collected in the same time from Ohio county tax-payers.

IT WAS AN UNLUCKY FRIDAY

Columbus Discovered America on That Day, Therefore English Lady Holds to the Superstition.

Once upon a time I was in a railroad accident. It was one of the only two I have ever experienced and I have traveled over 750,000 miles on trains and steamers, three times as far as from here to the moon, says Bishop McCabe, in the Christian Advocate.

A broken wheel threw the train off the track. The car I was in was shattered very much. Seated just ahead of me was an elderly lady who was suffering from rheumatism. It was necessary to change cars. I helped her off the car, carried her valise and gave her the support of my arm. Behind us came a noble-looking English lady with her husband by her side.

She was scolding him well for starting on their journey on Friday. "I told you, James," she said, "something would happen if we should start on Friday."

"Madam," said I, "do you know that Columbus set sail to discover America on Friday?"

She looked at me with indignation and said: "Sir, in my opinion it is a great pity that America was ever discovered at all."

So she held her opinion that Friday was an unlucky day. The old lady who had the rheumatism was convulsed with laughter, while the English lady went on ahead of us, scolding James for daring to disregard her warning not to start on Friday.

If there is such a thing as luck, surely the American republic has had its full share among the nations of the earth, and this republic was created by 13 colonies of the mother country. It can be proved that 13 is the most lucky number there is, if interesting coincidences may be considered indications of "luck."

There is no such thing as luck. There is such a thing as Providence. "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass."

MR. DOOLEY: "HER" STORY

Writer Tells of Bear Cub Which Exhibited Great Liking for Family at Yellowstone Park.

A few years ago, Mr. Walker, of the Yellowstone Park, while on horseback, ran down a silver-tip cub, and when I sketched it the cub was fastened to a tree, relates Dan Beard, in Recreation.

The cub was named Mr. Dooley, but there was some mistake in this, as the young monster was not a mister, though, as it appears "he" was a she.

I placed my sketching stool just out of reach of the cub, and, while I worked with my pencil, Mr. Dooley spent "his" time scraping the dirt with his paws, making long canals in the loose earth as "he" backed away, but all the time keeping "his" wicked little pig eyes fastened on me.

Every once in awhile "he" would make a sudden rush at me and end it with a half-strangled gurgling growl.

When the season was over, the commander of the post stated that he intended to send Mr. Dooley to the Washington zoo. This grieved Mr. Walker, until the late Maj. Bach innocently asked if Dooley never escaped, and the next morning it was discovered that Dooley had escaped.

Next spring when Mrs. Walker arrived with her husband at the canyon, to open the hotel, Dooley was waiting to greet them on the broad veranda.

Lipton Began Saving Early.

From the time he was 15 until he was 17 Sir Thomas Lipton saved $500. He earned this in America and took it back with him as the foundation of the fortune which he was to build up in the older country. While he was saving he was sending back money to his parents from his wages for work in the Carolina rice fields. His Scotch instinct had taught him, he has said, that the only way to have money was to save it.

By typographical error in the Matanzas communication last week it was stated that Worth Tichenor was attending the National Association of the A. S. of E. at Indianapolis when it was intended to state that Watt Taylor was attending the Association.

Mr. W. H. Davis died at his home in Sunnydale last Saturday after an illness of typhoid fever extending over several days. His remains were interred at Sunnydale Sunday. Mr. Davis was a comparatively young man and leaves a wife and several small children. He was an excellent citizen and will be greatly missed in the community of his home.

William Campfield of Wysox fell off a high barn last Friday afternoon sustaining such injured that it became necessary to amputate his leg. Mr. Campfield was at work covering his barn and the scaffold that was supporting him gave away. He slid down the roof and fell on a lot of sawlogs. His leg was crushed frightfully, an arm broken and his body was badly bruised. Dr. Joe Taylor amputated his leg and dressed his wounds.

The announcement of the death of Sam S. Cox which occurred at the home of his sister Mrs. C. E. Rogers at Elkton, Ky., yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock came as a great shock to the people of Hartford and community. He had been ill only a few days and his condition was not thought to be serious but unexpected complications set in and death quickly ensued. Sam was the only son of Capt. and Mrs. S. K. Cox and was one of Hartford's most popular and promising young men.

Critically Ill.

The Rev. John A. Bennett is in a critical condition at his home at Utica, as the result of blood poisoning. While repairing a fence several days ago Mr. Bennett allowed a heavy plank to fall on his leg, making a slight wound. No attention was paid to it at the time, but it became inflamed and later caused blood poisoning. Dr. J. C. Hoover, of Owensboro, was called in consultation with Mr. Bennett's family physician Saturday.

TURNIP RELISHED BY DEER

These Vegetables Taste Better to Timid Animals Than Whisky to Indian, Says Expert.

"Turnips taste better to a deer than whisky does to an Indian, and the animal will run as great a risk to get the vegetable as the red man will to get liquor," said Otto Wilke, of International Falls, at the St. Louis, to the Duluth Herald. "I know men who make it their annual custom to plant turnips in the spring in some secluded spot in a game country, just so they will be assured of easy venison in the fall, or during the summer months, if they happen to live in the woods themselves."

"If a turnip patch is located in any district where there are deer, every deer within that district will visit it several times a week, the time of day they make their visits depending upon the wariness of the animals and the nearness of settlers. Even after snow falls these visits are continued, as long as any vegetables are left in the ground. Until the snow gets too deep you can see where it is pawed away night after night in search for the succulent roots. This being the case, one can readily see that a person would not meet with much difficulty in getting a shot at a deer by watching a turnip patch in a country where the animals are to be found."

"Through the more sparsely settled districts they are actually pests to the homesteader who has a garden, for nothing but an eight-foot fence will keep them from eating the growing things and trampling the ground all up like a flock of sheep. It does not matter how near the vegetables are to the house, the deer will get into them just the same, the only difference being that they will come around later in the evening, when the darkness covers their movements. They have spoiled more than one garden prepared at a considerable expense of time and labor."

A MINORITY IN AUSTRALIA.

This Country Is Only One Which Has Destinies Shaped by Small Band of Politicians.

Australia is the one country in the universe that is having its destinies shaped by a political minority; the only one wherein the spirit and principle of representative government is outraged with impunity; it is the country whose vaunted democracy is rapidly driving the people into two great hostile camps and developing a class tyranny in most galling forms; it is the country of all others that most needs population, yet its immigration laws are strict almost to prohibition—the most drastic appearing on the statute books of any civilized land. But this seemingly hopeless tangle did not always exist there, says Public Opinion. Up to the year 1890 the Australian communities were the most thrifty, free, contented, least law-ridden and most easily governed of any under the sun. The advent of the professional agitator (labor union politician), the payment of members of parliament, and trades unionism run rampant brought about the change. When the labor socialist movement assumed tangible form, an entirely novel element was grafted on to the political life of the country. The new idea was fostered and boomed by an exceedingly clever but unscrupulous weekly, which boasted a wider general circulation than any other publication on the continent; political leaders of all shades and creeds soon saw the worth of it for their own special purposes and boomed it still higher. Its development was nothing short of phenomenal, and when political parties began bidding one against the other for its support and paying for that with the vested interests, if not the liberties of the community at large, it was given a hall mark of political value that has gone on steadily growing.

SHE KNITS DURING LECTURE

Another Philadelphia Woman Does Fancy Work While Traveling —Industries of Others.

The philosopher who recently said that the rushing methods of modern American life served to deplete the mind by giving it no time for quiet meditation might have found at least four instances right in the leisurely City of Brotherly Love of people who improve the "shining hour" up to the limit, says the Philadelphia Record.

One of these, curiously enough, is a sweet-faced old Quaker lady, who attends all the lectures at the Academy of Natural Science, and, like the guests at the old-fashioned tea parties, always "brings her knitting." Her gay-gowned old figure is a familiar sight at the lecture halls around the city, a soft gray silk bag suspended from her arm completing her picturesque costume. Punctuality, or over punctuality, is her strong point. She always arrives half an hour before the lecture begins and spends the time in knitting or crocheting. One waits with nervous anxiety to see what the old lady does when the lights are rung down and the pictures thrown on the sheet; but even while the lecturer is rolling out his sonorous periods the click of the old lady's needles can be heard. It is a stirring incident, indeed, or a dazzling picture, which can take the industrious old Friend's attention from her knitting.

Another "golden opportunist" is a very young woman living in West Philadelphia, who always takes her fancy work with her when she goes on railroad trips. Innumerable centerpieces and doilies have been created while she was being carried across mountains and rivers and valleys at the rate of sixty odd miles an hour.

Another woman, mother of a growing girl, whom she is anxious to have become skilled in music, superintends her daughter's piano practice every day, and paints pictures for sale, the while stamping her foot and counting: "One, two, three; rest." "One, two, three," etc.

Perhaps the most unique specimen of all is a school director of one of the suburban sections who always takes a hammer and nails with him as he goes through the class rooms on his weekly tours of inspection, for doing odd jobs of repairing around the school rooms.

BUTTERFLY AS INVESTMENT

Collectors Are Oftentimes Unable to Place Value Upon Rare Specimens of Insects.

Butterfly collectors are seldom able to estimate with any confidence the value of their collections, since the prices of specimens so constantly vary. A case in point is that of the blue butterfly of Brazil, specimens of which were originally sold for from $50 to $75. Not long ago some collectors who supplied the London market ran into a perfect swarm of these butterflies and shipped to England such quantities that better specimens than the original insects are sold for $1 each.

It not infrequently happens that two or three specimens of a certain family are discovered by collectors, who, encouraged by the high prices received for their finds, are tempted to prosecute their search for this particular variety without results for several years. Suddenly they or some other collectors find the insects grown plentiful, and the cherished varieties of the cabinet become among the commonest specimens.

FRENCH BOARDING SCHOOL

American Girls Have Little Conception of Strict Rules Enforced in These Institutions.

American girls have no conception of the restrictions of a French boarding school, says Jeanne Constantin, in Good Housekeeping. True, many of them are sent here to be educated, but generally to a cosmopolitan school where rules are few, the programme lighter and teachers more lenient; in a word, a school made to order for foreigners! The big girls sleep in dormitories, eight or ten little beds, separated by white curtains; the little girls in a room with a teacher. At seven, when the bell rings, they all have to get up and air their beds, then they go to the lavatory, where they all wash together, each one having her own basin and little drawer for brush and comb. The little ones go to a teacher to have their hair combed and braided. Then back to the dormitory, where they make up their beds. Clothes are kept upstairs, a servant bringing down what the pupil needs. So having nowhere to hide precious treasures, they generally are tucked away safely under one's bolster. Another bell, and each girl passes by a teacher, who examines her nails, sees that no buttons are missing from her shoes, etc. Then follow prayers in the little chapel. Meanwhile a teacher looks over the beds, and if any is found badly made, everything is taken off and the pupil is sent back to make it over again. From prayers the girls go down to breakfast: a bowl of cafe au lait with bread and butter. Directly after breakfast school begins, lasting till 12, with recess of 20 minutes at 10:30. The school rooms are unattractive, sometimes too cold or too warm, for schools, like all public buildings, railroads, etc., are heated the first of November and fire is stopped the first of April regardless of the thermometer. In the old-fashioned provincial boarding school the studies are not presented in an interesting way. The teachers are paid very little, they come generally from the same little town or a neighboring one, have seen nothing of the world, and teach as they have been taught.

BARNACLES HELPED JAPS.

Reason Why Russians Were Defeated on Water May Be Partly Laid, to False Bottoms.

One of the contributory causes to the defeat of the Russian fleet was the impossibility of going into dry dock after the passage of the tropical waters.

The plentiful marine growths, both animal and vegetable, of the warm waters near the equator attach themselves to a ship's bottom in the course of a few weeks and the ship loses both speed and dirigibility.

When a British ship on the West India station was broken up a few years ago more than 80 tons of barnacles were removed from her bottom, while an American frigate of only 800 tons register had 30 car loads of barnacles scraped from her bottom after a stay of but eight months in the warm latitudes.

During the passage of the Red sea and the Indian ocean it is probable that the Russian fleet picked up enough marine growth to reduce its speed by at least one-fourth, while a ship with a foul bottom is much less quick in answering the helm.

It is not probable that the result would have been other than it was in any event, but had the fleet got into action with clean bottoms the Japanese loss would have been far greater.

CIRCLES EARTH IN SECOND

Cable Message Completes Long Journey in Short Time—Interesting Facts Connected.

Around the world in three-fourths of a second and less is the trip a cable message makes. Since the laying of the cable from San Francisco to Manila completed the telegraphic circuit of the earth, it became possible to measure by the ordinary method of telegraphic longitude the arc across the Pacific and hence to complete the entire circle of the globe. Of necessity this must be equivalent to 360 degrees, or 24 hours of time, and the interest lies in noting how nearly the sum of the links which go to make up the whole approximates to this total, and thus obtaining some indication of the degree of accuracy which attaches to such operations. There are several routes across the eastern hemisphere by which the ends of the Pacific cable might be joined, and taking one direct route, via Madras, it appears that the closing error is less than a fifth of a second—that is to say, the sum of the various links exceeds 24 hours by only .174 second. Another interesting fact comes out. This Pacific cable consists of four sections divided by transmitting stations at Honolulu, Midway island and Guam, the total length of cable being 7,846 nautical miles. The time a signal takes to traverse this length, excluding that occupied by reading and passing on messages at intermediate points is not quite three-fourths of a second.

CORPULENCE AND SANITY.

"Gospel of Fat as Applied to the Treatment of Mental Disease"—Two Conditions Compared.

Are the majority of folk of weak intellect? Is insanity on the increase? asks the London World. Are we all preparing ourselves for lunatic asylums? These startling questions have occurred to me after reading an article in a medical journal on the "gospel of fat as applied to the treatment of mental disease." It seems that the more you fatten up the mentally afflicted the saner they become; but, of course, the difficulty lies in providing the lunatic with adipose tissue, as there is nothing like brain disease to cause too solid flesh to melt.

The aim of most of us nowadays is to keep down what our transatlantic friends, with their genius for using the ugliest word for everything, uncompromisingly call "flesh." We bathe, we massage, we diet, we fly to these and those waters, we try all manner of cures and put ourselves into various kinds of straps and pastes and take violent exercise with the aim of flinging ourselves down and keeping stoutness at bay.

Does this decided disposition on the part of men and women to avoid corpulence, and the successful "thinning down" that we notice on all sides, portend increase of lunacy? If so, dieting and the taking of waters and massage ought to be forbidden by act of parliament. By the way, Hamlet was fat and scant of breath, but he was certainly far from sane.

Matrimony vs. Female Labor.

One objection to trained female labor, says the Medical Press and Circulator, is that the service is liable to be disorganized by epidemics of matrimony among the employees. Nurses are by no means exempt from this weakness, and of late a disposition has shown itself in certain hospitals to discourage the admission of young women who are "engaged," on the ground that the fact of their future being thus mortgaged indisposes them to that self-abnegation and single minded devotion to duty which are held to constitute the stock in trade of those who propose to take up nursing as a profession. Some of the young women may prefer the independence of the single state, but the majority assuredly only await the opportunity to disqualify themselves for the nursing profession.

OUR NEW YORK WEEKLY LETTER

A Season of Gold and Dazzling Spangles—Gold Trimmed Hats, Blouses and Coats—Gold Buttons, Gold Girdles and Gold Interlinings—Circular Skirts the Newest Shape—Plateau Felts, Bent and Fluted.

By RENE DEVERAUX.

This is certainly a season of gold and glitter. Never before has there been so lavish an employment of gold and silver and sparkling spangles in the trimming of hats, wraps, gowns, coats and suits. Everywhere the most somber shades are lightened with a touch of gold.

Many of the long coats in dark blues and blacks are adorned with double rows of dull gold buttons. Soft evening wraps are piped with cloth of gold, effectively combined with velvet in black and rich shades, and embroidered trimmings and waistcoats, which the Directoire vogue has so much popularized, show through their designs glinting threads of burnished gold.

Hats of velvet and French felt are ornamented with bands of gold, some of the more dressy affairs for evening and theater wear showing a profusion of gold and silver roses.

Combined with tulle boas are tiny inner ruffles of gold or silver, their narrow gold or silver streamers, two or three on each side, falling almost to the hem of the gown in front.

Through the meshes of lace robes, both black and white, shimmers a cloth of gold interlining, and elaborate belts and girdles are fashioned of plain gold and embroidered stuffs in many new and fashionable weaves.

For dark cloth suits there are thickly embroidered bands in Persian effects through which metallic threads or a very fine gold cord is interspersed, and much of the chenille embroidery used for similar purposes is interwoven slightly with gold thread or has embroidered stitches in gold worked up on it.

One scarcely meets a child these days whose jaunty little coat or jacket is not fastened or trimmed with gold buttons and gold buckles.

Bodices and blouses made of piece lace dyed to match the shade of the velvet or cloth skirts with which they are to be worn are soft and becoming

READ THIS

Trenton, Ky., Jan. 24, 1905.—Dr. E. W. Hall, St. Louis, Mo., Dear Sir: Please find enclosed $1.00 for one bottle of your Texas Wonder. I used one bottle for kidney and bladder trouble. I want this bottle for my wife. It is a real wonder and one of the greatest medicines in the world. I was passing pure blood and one bottle cured me sound and well. You can use my testimonial and photograph if you wish. Yours truly, R. A. WILLIAMS, Real Estate Agent.

A TEXAS WONDER

One small bottle of Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, cures all kidney and bladder troubles, removes gravel, cures diabetes, seminal emission, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder trouble in children. If not sold by your druggist, will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two month's treatment, and seldom fails to cure any of the above mentioned. Sold by all druggists. Dr. E. W. Hall, sole manufacturer, P. O. box 629, office, 2931 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.

and easily made. With these, as well as with other costumes, gold girdles and gold stocks are exceedingly effective, adding a new note both striking and artistic.

In spite of such elaboration in trimmings, skirts as a rule are severely plain. Particularly is this true of the separate skirt for practical purposes. This skirt, which is becoming more and more popular, closely resembles an abbreviated riding habit. The smartest of these are fastened directly in front underneath a double slotted seam. A corresponding seam is down the center of the back, not a plait or a gather to be seen anywhere. Narrow hems, tailor stitched, usually finish these skirts at the bottom.

This same model was seen in a nearly invisible green and brown plaid. In plaid the circular sides are decidedly bias in effect, and the flare at the bottom is in graceful ripples. When one may find a skirt of this description of handsome material splendidly tailored ranging in price from $10 to $15, it seems a waste of time to consider making.

As the season advances, hats are becoming more and more bent and mashed, and wings, if possible, larger and more pointed. Felt plateaus are bent in every conceivable shape, rippling around the face or turned up all around in many little flutes and angles. As a trimming for these, velvet is used extensively, exceedingly high bandeaux and high pointed wings making a chic and attractive ensemble. Such hats may be bent to fit any head or made becoming to almost all faces.

A FEW NOTES ON EXPOSURE

Pointers on First Step in Picture-Taking Which May Be of Value to Amateur Photographer.

The unknown quantity in photography for the amateur, the pit into which we all stumble at first, and some of us all the time, is the question of proper exposure of the negative, says Recreation. We may have the finest lenses, the most expensive of cameras, all the latest ideas in dark-room fixtures and apparatus, but if our knowledge of exposure is of the hit or miss kind we shall never, except by accident, produce passable pictures.

The plate or films which we are able to buy have, luckily, a great latitude in exposure, that is, they are so prepared that within fairly reasonable limits a fairly good negative can be obtained from an under, as well as from an over-exposure. But it must be remembered that an under-exposure negative will only give us hard prints, showing the shadows without detail, and the high lights too strong, with a consequent unbalanced look. An over-exposed negative, on the other hand, will yield a flat-looking print, with both shadows and high lights dull and lifeless. We can to considerable extent remedy an over-exposed negative by suitable reduction, but it is not easy for a beginner. An under-exposed negative can only be improved by a lot of hand work, masking, etc., hence it is always best to err on the side of over exposure. But better still, it is to get correct exposure—or normal, as it is sometimes called—in the first instance. This is easily accomplished if we make use of one of the many exposure meters that inventive minds have produced for amateur photographers. An exposure meter or time measure is really a most useful instrument to the beginner, especially when exposure is a consideration, for it will save loads of spoiled plates and much weariness of spirit. They can be bought from ten cents up to two or three dollars, the more expensive ones being, as in most cases, the most reliable and the best in the end. An exposure meter is, however, not absolutely necessary if we will but experiment a little at the start and make notes of our results.

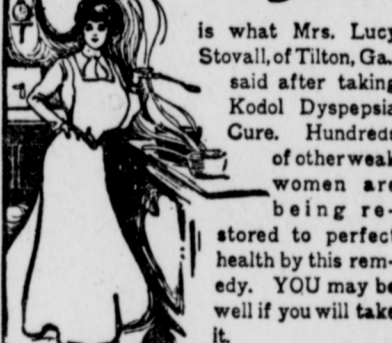

Artificial and Natural Silk.

Several processes are now employed in Germany, Switzerland and France for the manufacture of artificial silk, and one of the German associations is said to be negotiating for the establishment of a factory in the United States. In one of the latest processes cellulose dissolved in ammoniated oxid of copper is directly separated from this solution in the form of threads by the aid of an acid. Under the microscope all artificial silks are said to differ from natural silks by possessing thicker threads. The artificial silks are also distended by water, the threads increasing from one-third to one-half in thickness.

HOSIERY.

"Learn to do some one thing better than any one else has ever been able to do the same thing, and, though you live in a wilderness, the world will beat a path to your door."

In the little town of Chemnitz, in Saxony, there lived a chemist who spent years trying to do one thing—to make a black stocking that would be absolutely fast black.

This chemist succeeded, and the path the world beat to his door is very wide and well worn indeed. By his discovery Louis Hermsdorf made himself world famous, and his little town of Chemnitz became the center of the stocking industry of the entire world.

You don't have to look very far back to remember the time when to wear a black stocking was to wear a stocking that would fade, that would discolor the feet. Hermsdorf dye changed all this, yet in the last few years many of us have forgotten our former stocking troubles and are accepting the many cheap imitations of Hermsdorf dye with which the market is being flooded.

It is true economy to be very careful in buying black stockings.

MACY'S representative goes to Chemnitz each year to buy the original Hermsdorf Dyed Stockings, made in Chemnitz.

These stockings, bought almost a year in advance, are made to our special order in Chemnitz, and each stocking is dyed by the original Hermsdorf process, and each one is guaranteed absolutely fast black. It is needless to say that MACY'S stocking department is famous.

In order to get these stockings at the very lowest prices we buy them in enormous quantities, thousands of dozens at a time. To get a still further reduction in price we actually pay for the stockings before they are made. (This is an example of MACY'S Business Method.)

So, after adding our customary small margin of profit, we can sell you the original Hermsdorf Dyed Stockings, made to our special order in Chemnitz, for a little less than other dealers ask you for the domestic imitation kind.

Postage on stockings is about 10 cents per half dozen pairs.
